DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT there are no people who enter business without competition, and none without a strong desire to do a larger business than their competitors, which lends a strong impetus to work hard.

Most people in business get pleasure as well as profits out of their work, and added zest when competition is keen.

The business concerns who enter in the spirit of clean business competition in a whole-hearted way, giving their best in competition, are rewarded by the buying public.

The possibility of failure keeps some business people in a very unsettled frame of mind—worry brings failure nearer.

Those who cast worry aside, make up their minds as to the certainty of success and put their best efforts into it, get most out of it.

The average business people love their business, enjoy it, like to succeed and always try to improve it.

SOME PEOPLE ARE SPOILED BY SUCCESS; SOME FEEL HOPELESS WHEN BUSINESS IS SLOW, AND SOME ARE JUST THE SAME—WIN OR LOSE.

THE BEST BUSINESS IS BUILT BY THE STEADY, EVEN AND CONSISTENT CONCERN WHO KEEP FIGHTING ALONG WITH THE BEST OF THEIR ABILITY WITH QUALITY GOODS, SERVICE, AND REGULAR NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

29 REPORT FOR FOOTBALL PRACTICE; DRILL UNDER COACHES BARRY, BROXTON

Owl Team to be Built from Green, Light Group as Few Lettermen Return for '29 Season

By Kooter MacGrail

With 29 boys answering the call, football practice for the 1929 season was started Monday at the high school. Coaches Barry and Broxton are drilling the future Owls twice daily during the week prior to school.

The morning session being from 7 to 9 and the evening drill from 4 to 6.

With only 8 letterman, 4 of whom were reserves, of last year's team the coaches are working diligently to get the boys in shape for the coming hard season.

The first week is being devoted to the teaching of the fundamentals of the game and to the toughening of the group. Instructions in tackling, passing, blocking and a few plays along with light scrummage are to be given until the team is experienced and capable enough to start hard scrummage on scientific plays.

Light Team

The Hondo Owls of this year will be built from a rather light group, with a few members that should prove to be regular mountains of strength, if developed. The two heavies of the team are Edgar Mechler and Vic Murray weighing 207 and 199 respectively. The lightweights are J. Muenennik and J. Smith both weighing 102 pounds. The average weight of the team is 127.

Captain Don Windrow, J. Fusselman, August Haegelin, F. Leinweber V. Murray, Homer Rothe, R. Spece and C. Steinle are the returning lettermen. Others reporting are B. Bailey, J. Drotcourt, A. Finger, Joe Haegelin, Milton Haegelin, E. Mechler, B. Miller, J. Muenennik, L. Pettis, C. Rieber, Lawrence Rothe, B. C. Rucker, J. Smith, D. Stanley, H. Steigler, Tony Taylor, G. I. Wilson, C. Wright, Jack Mask, Edward Taylor.

Tough Schedule

The schedule to be met by the Owls this year is a tough one, with the opening district game against the strong Del Rio team at Del Rio.

Of the ten games booked thus far only four are played at home. At present Sommerset is listed for the first game to be played here on September 20. The schedule is:

September 20—Somerset at Hondo. (Tentative)

September 27—Los Angles Heights of San Antonio at Hondo.

October 4—Del Rio at Del Rio.

October 11—Cotulla at Pearsall County Fair.

October 18—Uvalde at Uvalde.

October 25—Open.

November 2—Pearsall at Pearsall.

November 11—Sabinal at Hondo.

November 18—Devine at Devine.

November 22—Crystal City at Hondo.

BUSINESS-COUNCIL MEETING.

The Epworth League held a business-council meeting Wednesday night, August 27, 1929. After a few songs and prayer several questions were discussed, among them the league pledge for the coming year and how to raise it. Reports of the different departments were filled out and signed by the superintendent of each department.

All members who can are urged to attend the League meeting at Yancey Sunday, September 1, 1929. Lunch will be served and all who go will enjoy a day well spent.

TEXAS <sup>A</sup> <sub>N</sub> D TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes

Valley Citrus Fruits

The importance of the citrus fruit industry to Texas is shown in the statement that there are now 5,000,000 citrus fruit trees in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, an increase of 1,500,000 within the last year. There are some 70,000 acres planted to citrus fruits in the Valley alone.

When it is considered that extensive plantings have been made almost from Eagle Pass to Brownsville and as far north as San Antonio, some idea of the future of the industry in Texas may be had. It begins to look like it will not be long before Texas will lead Florida and California in the production of citrus fruits.

Just now the problem is to prevent fly that is playing such havoc with the invasion of the Mediterranean and the fruit in Florida, but due to the State governments, it is believed that this will be done.

Pecos Country Cantaloupe

Did you ever eat a Pecos cantaloupe? If not, you have a treat ahead of you should you ever be where they are sold. There is something about the altitude, the soil and the water that makes them better than the ordinary melon. About 100 carloads are being shipped from Pecos this season, and the success of the growers will probably increase the shipments to several thousand cars next year.

Poultry Plus Cotton

The Edna cotton crop was largely a failure this year because of an invasion of every known cotton pest, but many of the farmers of Jackson county had the foresight to engage in poultry farming, and they are so well pleased with the results as compared with cotton farming that poultry plants are increasing at a rapid rate. Poultry, pigs and peanuts provide prosperity.

Profitable Grape Crops

Two vineyards planted near Decatur less than three years ago have yielded their first marketable crop of grapes, which brought returns of $200 an acre. The Carman was the variety that made the largest yield, having produced at the rate of two tons to the acre. A large part of the crop was sold at roadside stands in five pound baskets to tourists. Much of the Texas soil is well adapted to grape culture.

Jasper County Soy Beans

Three hundred Jasper County farmers are growing soy beans as the result of an experiment made four years ago with a one acre crop. The farmers are so well pleased with the results that the acreage is being increased from year to year. Soy bean hay has been found to be an excellent livestock food and especially valuable for milk production and for hogs.

Texarkana Gas Hike

Just about the time that the people get to enjoying a thing so much that they think they can't get along without it, prices are hiked until it has to be classed as a luxury. That is what the people of Texarkana, both in Arkansas and Texas, are saying about natural gas, the utility company having asked for increased rates of more than 30 per cent, although there does not seem to be any shortage of production in the natural gas fields of either Arkansas or Texas.

East Texas Towns Get Gas

A string of East Texas towns, including Jefferson, Linden, Pittsburg, Gilmer, Hughes Springs, Omaha, Daingerfield, Winnsboro, Naples, Mount Vernon, Mount Pleasant and Avinger, covering a pipe line distance of 130 miles, despite Texarkana's present troubles over gas rates, have closed contracts by which they expect to get natural gas by December 1. Natural gas is one of the best of modern conveniences, and

A TRAGIC DEATH.

A very tragic death occurred here Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Barney Moss was preparing to cook supper and in kindling the fire she took up a five gallon oil can, that contained about two gallons of oil, and poured oil into the stove; immediately there followed an explosion and her clothes became ignited and were completely burned off her body. Her entire body was burned and blistered. Her suffering was intense. Dr. Meyer was called at once and was at her bedside in a few minutes and did all he could to relieve her suffering but death claimed her at 5 o'clock in the morning.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Love, and besides her parents, she leaves her husband, a three year old son and a seven weeks old baby girl, besides sisters and brothers and many other relatives who mourn her sad tragic death.

with the abundance of gas beneath the surface it should be made available to every one.

Air Minded Memphis

Memphis expects to enroll twenty members in a flying-club which will buy a $3,500 airplane that will accommodate two passengers and a pilot. An instructor has been secured and will teach the Memphians how to fly. Membership in the organization costs $100.00, and members will be assessed $15.00 a month for ten months and have the privilege of taking flying lessons at $5.00 a lesson. Flying is no longer a fad or pastime. It is fast becoming a business necessity.

A banker who does business in Dallas, but has a home in Bell county, is now making regular trips daily from his home to his bank, reaching the bank each day in time for business and returning at close of business to eat his evening meal at home.

Centennial Suggestion

Mrs. Lipscomb Norvell of Beaumont, past regent of the D. A. R., makes the suggestion that a fund be raised to erect a suitable memorial to the Texas Indian on the Texas capitol grounds, to be unveiled during the proposed Texas Centennial anniversary. This should be done, and should Mrs. Norvell lead such a movement she would no doubt get the help of every patriotic Texan and especially of the descendants of the Texas pioneers. Texas owes it to the Indians to perpetuate in some such way the memory of their part in the early life of Texas. The memorial should be on a scale commensurate with the greatness of the State.

Completing Old Spanish Trail

Kimble county is tarvating fourteen miles of the Old Spanish Trail and will soon complete the remaining 10 miles in that county, thus building its part of the great highway, which will be the best all-weather road through Texas to the Pacific Coast.

In doing so, Kimble county is taking a step that will make that section famous as a tourist resort. With its beautiful scenery, its fine climate, and its great fishing and hunting grounds, the country around Junction has only needed to be more accessible to tourist travel.

MASS CATECHISM CELEBRATION.

For the first time in the history of Medina and Uvalde Counties, all the Lutheran congregations of those two counties assembled for joint services. The occasion was the commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the original publication of Luther's Small Catechism. The services were held in the Hondo High School auditorium last Sunday, August 25.

In the forenoon Rev. W. Kralik of Castroville addressed the large convevation in the German language. In the afternoon, Rev. Wm. F. Kraushaar, President of Seguin Lutheran College, spoke to the assembly in the English language. In the evening, Rev. E. J. Braulick, Dean of the Department of Religion at Seguin College, delivered the address. Dr. Schuh, supply pastor of Grace Lutheran Church of San Antonio, was asked to say a few words and he did so in a very effective manner. All the addresses were well delivered, and well received.

The speakers related why Luther wrote the catechism; they explained its value and beauty, its simplicity and profundity, its brevity and richness; they pointed out its proper use in the home, school and church; they assured the audience that so long as the Bible will continue to be accepted by men as the inspired Word of God, so long will Luther's catechism continue to be printed, to be read, studied, memorized, cherished and prized, for it contains the elements, the gist, the essence of the Bible in plain language along sound pedagogical lines, and is absolutely free from all controversy and polemics. Anyone who reveres the Bible as the very Word of God, cannot but subscribe to the teachings of Luther's catechism, cannot but feel and appreciate its comforting message of salvation in Christ the Redeemer, its strength and its divineness.

Those who attended the celebration got a glimpse of the richness, simplicity and beauty of Luther's catechism by reading the selected gems from the treasure chest of the catechism, which were printed on the reverse side of the programs handed out. For the sake of those readers of the Anvil Herald who were not there, this selection of passages from the first chief parts of the catechism is herewith given:

PART I.

The Ten Commandments.
The Third Commandment.

Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.

What does this mean?

Answer. We should fear and love God so that we do not despise His Word and the preaching of the same, but deem it holy, and gladly hear and learn it.

PART II.

The Creed.

The Second Article.

Of Redemption.

And in Jesus Christ His only Son, our Lord; Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary; Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried; He descended into hell; The third day He rose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; From thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

What does this mean?

Answer. I believe that Jesus Christ, true God, begotten of the Father from eternity, and also true Man, born of the Virgin Mary, is my Lord; Who has redeemed me, a lost and condemned creature, bought me and freed me from all sins, from death, and from the power of the devil; not with silver and gold, but with His holy and precious blood, and with His innocent sufferings and death; in order that I might be His own, live under Him in His kingdom, and serve Him in everlasting righteousness, innocence, and blessedness; even as He is risen from the dead, and lives and reigns to all eternity. This is most certainly true.

PART III.

The Lord's Prayer.

The First Petition.

Hallowed be Thy Name.

What does this mean?

Answer. God's name is indeed holy in itself; but we pray in this petition that it may be hallowed also among us.

How is this done?

Answer. When the Word of God is taught in its truth and purity, and we, as God's children, lead holy lives, in accordance with it. This grant us, dear Father in heaven! But whoever teaches and lives otherwise than as God's word teaches, profanes the Name of God among us. From this preserve us, heavenly Father!

PART IV.

The Sacrament of Holy Baptism.

How can water bring to pass such great things?

Answer: The water, indeed, does not bring to pass such great things, but the Word of God, joined to the water, and our faith, which relies on that Word of God. For without the Word of God, it is only water and no baptism. But when joined to the Word of God, it is a baptism, that is, a gracious water of life and a washing of regeneration in the Holy Ghost, as St. Paul says to Titus, in the third chapter: "According to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour; that being justified by His grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life. This is a faithful saying."

PART V.

The Sacrament of the Altar.

What is the Sacrament of the Altar?

Answer. It is the true Body and Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, under the bread and wine, given unto us Christians to eat and to drink, as it was instituted by Christ Himself.

Besides the Lutheran congregations of Castroville, Knippa, New Braunfels, Quihi and Hondo, quite a number of the citizenship of Hondo and vicinity, as well as a few people from San Antonio attended the services. The following Lutheran pastors were present: G. Langer of Knippa, C. P. Hasskarl of Quihi, Wm. F. Kraushaar of Castroville, Wm. F. Kraushaar, E. J. Braulick, Theo. Steng of San Antonio, Dr. Schuh, home missionaries Pfennig and Ihrig of Uvalde and H. A. Heineke.

6,000 ACRES LEASED IN YANCEY DISTRICT.

The Pan-American Development Company, South American oil developers, have entered the activity in the San Antonio oil territory and Monday announced they have secured a block of leases comprising 6,000 acres in the Yancey district of Medina County. This acreage has all been acquired with straight five year commercial leases.

Pan-American has this entire territory geologized by J. Carlton Bray, geologist, who is now associated with them. Officials of the company state that this block is not to be put on the market and have their own equipment for drilling wells.

Those who attended the celebration got a glimpse of the richness, simplicity and beauty of Luther's catechism by reading the selected gems from the treasure chest of the catechism, which were printed on the reverse side of the programs handed out. For the sake of those readers of the Anvil Herald who were not there, this selection of passages from the first chief parts of the catechism is herewith given:

Pan-American have gas production wells within one and three-quarter miles east and oil producing wells within five miles northeast of their block. The Illinois oil pipe line passes within three and one-half miles and a gas pipe line within three miles of their block. There are two wells on the east side of their block producing 32 and 38 gravity oil around 2,300 feet.

Pan-American is represented here by Tom Jones, Slim Burgin and W. W. Wilson. They have associates in South America. This company is operating in Venezuela, Ecuador and Mexico. They claim to have drilled the deepest wells ever drilled in Venezuela.

Officials of the company are confident they have a producing structure through their block and predict that some large producing wells will be drilled in Medina County but would not venture the opinion as to whether these big wells will be drilled by them or by others.

MODEL T FORDS

USUALLY, when a person buys a new Ford from us, he has by no means exhausted the trans- portation in his old car. We have several bargains in un- used mileage in our showroom right now, awaiting second owners. Naturally, the prices are so low that you could easily afford to have one—possibly for that second car which will so solve your family's transportation problem.

Mode T Fords are thor- oughly reconditioned and guar- anteed. We also have other makes of cars for second owners—priced according to the unused service in them.

Regarding our used-car prices, remember this. There is no "padding" to care for excessive trade-in allowances, for the price of the new Ford is so low—so close to the cost of production and selling—that there is no leeway for un- reasonable trade-in conces- sions. When you buy a used car from us you pay just what it is worth, and no more. We would hardly care to risk our reputa- tion and good-will by follow- ing any other policy.

BACK FROM ALBANY.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Davis and daughters, Misses Anne and Lucy, returned Tuesday evening from a brief visit to Mr. and Mrs. F. Marion Davis at Albany, Texas. The trip of some seven hundred miles was made by auto, going via Boerne and Fredericksburg and returning via Junction, Rock Springs and Uvalde. It was dry and hot and crops were poor throughout the entire section traversed. The cotton crop in Shackelford County is almost a complete failure but there is lots of oil development and Albany is a busy, prosperous place.

The roads are generally good throughout the entire route, but a great deal of road work is in progress and several detours had to be made.

We had the pleasure of seeing con- siderable of the Shackelford County highway work, with the engineering part of which F. Marion is connected, and the county is going to have a splendid system of paved highways when finished.

W.H.U. SERVICE

Some one had opened the watergate from the filter-gallery! Against all orders. And he was trapped. By the ladders, a quarter of a mile away, the sun light sifted down the shaft showed the gray leap of the ten-foot cascade foaming into the conduit, the gush of half-a-mile of solid water held in the six-foot gallery back of it.

The floor was slightly inclined to facilitate the flow. With the gate easily open the flood would sweep down the conduit with velocity and power sufficient to tear away all obstructions. His only hope lay in reaching the ladders. Behind him, four hundred yards back, was the forebay.

Against the increasing tide Caleb made his rush, desperate, feeling it useless but determined to battle for his chance. The water boiled to his knees, sucking at him, clutching at his feet, the tunnel resounding with its magnified chucklings. A foot slipped and he thrust both hands suddenly against the angles of the roof, impaling his palms to the cement, dropping the torch of necessity. Save for the gray light at the bottom of the shaft, lessening as the gate lifted and the water rose in tumult, he was in darkness. Up it came and a swirling lunge almost flung him down. Once engulfed it would be all over with him. He could not dream of finding his own for a moment in the torrent which would tumble him, sift his lungs, and hurl him into the forebay pit, perhaps carry him on, a sodden corpse, to the intake; drowned, battered, slain in his own contrivance.

The details of his fate, his helplessness, crowded his mind. Then he was forced to slowly give way, sliding gradually back, presting his feet into the angles of floor and sides, cupping his palms against the damp ceiling. He thought of the crack. If he could get his fingers into that he might gain purchase enough to hold fast. But he was in the dark. He hung up one hand at the risk of going down and it scraped along the top of the tunnel. Back, back, inch by inch foot by foot . . . !

There it was at last! He forced his finger tips into the fissure and braced himself again. It could not be for long. His head was bent, his neck cramped. Soon the waters must reach his mouth and nose—but long before that the force of the torrent would have swept him away. The loud lapping of it was confusing. It sounded triumphant, as if a multitude of water-devils were laughing at his plight. The compressing air made his ears buzz and he began to get dizzy.

There were no vivid flashes of former life. Betty's face, smiling at him after he had made his speech, came up once before him. Life had played a sly trick on him. It was very close to the end of things for Caleb Warner, engineer. The icy chill of the water sapped his vitality. Now it gurgled about his lower ribs, closest to his heart. With feet wide apart, one palm splayed against the roof, fingers of the other hand crooked into the little crack, he resisted with all the strength he knew must prove inadequate. His jaw was set, his muscles rigid. He snarled in the blackness, forced to lean backward against the force of the mounting flood.

"Well, here I go," he muttered. There was no philosophy in the statement, no bravado, only the submission of a brave man who accepts the inevitable.

One foot slipped again, was sucked out, trailing in the tide. But he got it down, battling to the last spark of vitality, every remnant of energy centered in the will to cling, to fight.

His collapse. Seconds passed that seemed like hours, his brain became a blank. Dimly thought formulated. The water was no longer rising. It strengthened, his brain cleared to the fact that spurred his weariness to hope. Some one was at the gate—closing it. He could have shouted as he knew the race subsiding, down to his waist, his thighs, ever lower while the roar lessened, the chugging ceased, but he emitted only a hoarse croak. Revulsion gripped him and left him weak for a few moments before he started to wade toward the ladders while the cataract lost form, reduced finally to a mere dribble spouting underneath the vertical shut-off.

As he clasped the lower rungs, sudden rage possessed him to find the man who had disobeyed his orders. The wrath renewed all his vitality and he climbed swiftly toward the head of the shaft and the blessed light.

A sight met his eyes as his head emerged above the gatehouse door that sent him vaulting from the shaft over the piperall that guarded it. The wheel that controlled the gate was down and, across the coaming of its threaded rod lay Betty Clinton, one hand still clutching the rim of the wheel. Her hat was off and her hair streamed loose, framing the pallor of her face. One sleeve of her white serge coat had been torn away and the shoulder ripped. Her flimsy blouse was in shreds, the fair white skin of arm and neck and round bosom showed where a rude hand had torn her undergarment. He had an impression—no more—of a shadow rising by the door and vanishing. He had eyes only for the girl, consciousness only of her plight and the knowledge that she had closed the gate and saved him after some desperate fight.

He took her in his arms and raised her, limp and pitiable. A red blotch on her curving shoulder and marks on her wrist were already purpling into angry bruises. He called to her, but she did not respond. There was a rough bench in the place and he laid her on it, catching down a sweater jacket from a nail—it belonged to the gatekeeper, who had gone to get his share of the barbecue—and he buttoned it around her before he ran out of the gatehouse for aid.

The speeches were over, the crowd getting into their cars ready to complete the trip. They would not come in this direction, he knew, and shouted at the top of his lungs to attract attention. He felt that Betty was not badly hurt beyond bruises and shock, but he felt helpless; not wanting to leave her, not knowing what best to do. There were thousands of gallons of water under his feet, but none with which to revive her, save that which dripped from his clothes. A woman was needed—perhaps a doctor. He did not want to take her into the curious crowd.

He shouted again just as a car broke from the ruck and came down towards the gatehouse. The occupants saw him waving. If they did not hear him, they sensed trouble in his pose and the car leaped ahead under the flow of gas. It was Cox, with Burns, coming to see what delayed him. The superintendent had told the president that Warner was giving the tunnel final inspection.

As the car came up Caleb hailed Cox.

"There's been an accident," he said. "Foul play of some kind. Nothing serious, but I want Mrs. Carquinez to attend to Miss Clinton. She was attacked, trying to save me. You know Mrs. Carquinez, Cox. She'll be by my car. Get her."

"Wife of the artist? I remember her. Do you want Burns?"

But Caleb had turned back into the gatehouse. Cox's driver turned the car on the ramp and the car went back at full speed. Burns halted in the doorway, uncertain at the sight of Caleb kneeling beside Betty Clinton. The girl was reviving, saying something to him.

"No place for me," Burns told himself. "I can't do anything in there." He turned his back, waiting for reinforcements.

"You're safe!" Betty raised her head and Caleb pillowed it on his arm.

"Yes, thanks to you," he said. "What happened?"

"Oh, I'm so glad." Sudden tears choked her utterance and she began to sob hysterically.

The car came racing back again with Carquinez and his wife in the tonneau with Maria. Luis Padilla on the running board.

Maria swept Caleb aside, her eyes resenting Mrs. Carquinez as she loosened a rush of Spanish with her arms about her senorita. Betty Clinton fought off her hysteria, braced at the entrance of the rest, and sat up.

"I'm all right, Maria," she said.

"You'll want to know what happened. I saw that gentleman"—she looked at Burns, hovering in the background with Padilla—"speak to Mr. Warner. Then you left the tables." She turned to talk directly to Caleb.

"I thought that something had gone wrong, by your face, and I watched you going toward the gatehouse. I saw a man pass one of the openings in the screens and follow you. I had seen him before, looking in from where the food was served, back of where you sat. Just before you left. He had a beard, he looked rough and wild. His eyes were glittering like a mad dog's. I fancied I knew him somehow and I tried to remember where. I knew the memory was in some way sinister. It may have been intuition, but it possessed me. So I slipped from my seat while Mr. Hinckley was speaking and went to where I could watch the road. You were nearly at the gatehouse, almost running. And this other man was running, too, not on the road but among the sage, bent double, lurching as if he was drunk, trying not to be seen, following you. A figure of evil. And I suddenly placed him. I knew it was Baxter! And I was sure he meant harm to you!"

"I should have used my head better," she confessed, color coming back to her cheeks, slowly spreading over face and neck under Caleb's gaze. "At least I should have called Luis, but I only thought of one thing, to warn you. I think that even then I guessed what was going to happen. That you were going into the tunnel—and Baxter . . . !

"When I got here he was at the wheel. I was sure then. I shouted at him and he paid no attention. I could hear the water pounding down into the tunnel and I tried to drag him away. I did once and tried to twist back the wheel but he jumped at me and we fought. He was too strong for me and he flung me off at last. He was crazy, beside himself, a madman. It wasn't just the liquor. I'm going to drown him," he said. "Drown him like a rat." And he cursed at me first and then—threatened me.

"I was desperate. I saw a wrench on the seat and I struck him with it on the back of his head. He went down, staggering—and I got to the wheel. When the roar of the water ended I knew you were safe. I suppose I fainted. You came . . . !

For the pair of them, for the moment, as their eyes met, there was no one else in the gatehouse. Burns stooped to the floor and picked up a tool.

"There's blood on the wrench," he said, under his breath to Cox. "Hey, where's that Mexican going?"

"It must have been Baxter I glimpsed as I came out of the shaft," Caleb was saying. "He had just come to, I suppose, and . . . !

He broke off at Burns' exclamation. The superintendent pointed to where Padilla was running over the plain toward the foothills head low, eyes searching the ground like a hound on trail. Something glittered in his hand.

DAILY HORSE RACING TO FEATURE KENDALL
COUNTY ANNUAL FAIR

Boerne, Texas, Aug. 28.—The Kendall County Fair Ass'n is making preparations to hold its 24th annual Fair at Herff Park, the home of the Kendall County Fair, on September 6, 7 and 8.

Agricultural Exhibits which are the making of a successful fair, with the best strains of beef and dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, goats and poultry, will be there in abundance. Prominent also will be the wonderful garden and orchard yields. The Ladies Department with its array of art needle work, culinary and other home exhibits is featuring a new department this year, the Infants' Department, which will be very attractive. From all indications the ladies' exhibits will far surpass all previous years.

For the amusement of the vast crowd that is expected to attend this annual event the Roy Gray Shows will furnish the Carnival Attractions and entertainment, each afternoon snappy ball games will be played between popular neighboring town teams, and horse races will be run daily. A vast number of the best and fastest thoroughbred horses have already been booked.

Schaeffer's Concert Band will furnish the music on the grounds and at the dance each night at the open pavilion.

Sunday, September 8, as usual, has been designated as San Antonio and Hill Country Day and a record breaking crowd is expected.

Plenty of water and salt with a minimum amount of concentrated feed for several days before and after calving helps to prevent milk fever in the dairy cow. If the disease does develop, however, it is easy to treat it by injecting sterile air (air filtered through liquid or cotton) into the udder. Keep an air pump or a milk-fever outfit on hand. Mature cows, particularly high producers, are more susceptible than young cows.

Farms for the man who wants to farm; ranches for the man who wants to ranch; town property for either who wants to retire and move to town. We have the place to suit you. See Hondo Land Company.

STAGE SCREEN NEWS

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION have temporarily withdrawn from the fight with the Motion Picture Producers for an All-Equity cast. This eases a situation that has threatened the industry with disaster. Ethel Barrymore, vice-president of Equity is credited with the assistance.

The Greater Majestic theatre in San Antonio brings another grand bill of Big Time Vaudeville to the Southwest again next week. On this program of well known Broadway artists is Eva Clark, the famed prima donna of the St. Louis Opera Co. This is the first vaudeville engagement she has filled in several seasons, and promises to be one of the real musical treats of the year. Another novel attraction is La Belle Pola, the Siamese dancer and the jungle band, with KIKI. Then there is Billy Kelly and Warren Jackson in "Oh May," a turn of song, dance and patter, and Joe McGrath and Elsie Travers in "Now and Then." Lloyd Nevada and Company present comedy novelty, "The Miser." An extra added attraction is "The Yucatan Quintette," the most extraordinary string orchestra now on tour.

The picture for the week is "Paris Bound," a Pathé production of 100% all dialogue and singing, featuring the beautiful and talented star of the New York stage, Ann Harding, who is supported by Frederic Marc and a brilliant cast, including Hallam Cooley and Charlotte Walker.

Many good things are in store for Majestic patrons, including the presenting of Charles Ray, the movie star, in person. He comes to the Greater Majestic the week of September 7th.

The second Greater Majestic

Midnight show will be presented Saturday night, August 31st, at which time the collegiate comedy-drama, "The Sophomore" will be shown. This is the picture that was adapted from the story "Joe College," and according to advance notices it is the greatest of all the college epics. Sally O'Neil and Eddie Quillan have the leading roles.

The voice of Downey is heard at its best in this roush drama of old Ireland, and the theme songs, "A Dreamer of Love" and "Syncopated Blues," which have been recorded by Victor, are sung by this likeable young tenor.

SIMPLE PLAN FOR RE-WORKING NATIVE PECANS SUGGESTED.

One man working single-handed can convert three acres of native pecans into improved varieties annually by planning his work carefully and following out four steps outlined for pecan demonstrators in Texas by J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist in the Extension Service. "When the crops are laid by in July," he says, "there is a lull in farm work which can profitably be devoted to thinning out three acres of native growth to get rid of all trees and brush except pecans, and to reduce the number of pecan trees to not more than twenty to the acre.

"The trees bearing inferior nuts may be topped in the winter when other farm work is slack, cutting the limbs back to where their diameters are about six to eight inches. The sprouts that come out in the spring from these dehorned trees may then be budded to improved varieties in the following July and August. From then on it is mainly a matter of caring for the new buds that push out the next spring, cutting the strings that bind the patch buds and tying them to supporting limbs to prevent wind injury.

"It used to be a hard and expensive job," says Mr. Rosborough, "to clear out a native pecan growth but it is now quickly and cheaply done for $2 to $5 per acre by the use of poison. Undesirable trees should be girdled by cutting an angular gash about the trunks and pouring a few teaspoonsful of a poison mixture into the cuts. By fall the trees are dead and within one or two years may be pulled down and removed. The poison is made by heating 1 1/2 gallons of water to boiling, adding one pound of washing soda and a 4-ounce can of lye, and after these have dissolved adding one pound of white arsenic. The solution is boiled and put away in a can ready for use. Livestock should be kept out of the poisoned area until the sap has stopped running out of the cuts made in the bark."

A writer discussing the proposed export debenture plan for farm relief says: "It offers a definite premium for increased production. In the end the Federal Farm Board and the ambitious enterprise it will manage will succeed or fail in the field of CROP CONTROL rather than in that of market manipulation. The problem is largely one of adjusting the output of American farms to the capacity of the American market." And therein the writer exposes the chief danger in the government's efforts at farm relief. The farmer is asking for the bread of an export bounty that will make his farming profitable and leave him free to produce to the utmost; let him beware lest he be handed a stone in the form of government regulation of how much he shall plant and government dictation of how he shall dispose of what he produces.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

Escalloped Salmon with Lima Beans and Noodles—54¢
Radishes and Sliced Cucumbers—15¢
Bread and Butter—8¢
Blackberry Ice-Cream—19¢
Black Coffee—3¢

OUR people may have an excellent dinner at home for a dollar—a quarter apiece—if the marketing is carefully done and the various items of the menu skilfully combined.

To make the salmon dish, remove the fish from a tall can (28 cents), remove skin and bones, and place as whole as possible in the center of a large, shallow baking plate. Make a sauce of one and one-half tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup milk, liquor from the can and salt and pepper. Pour over the salmon. Cover with one-third cup crumbs buttered with one tablespoon of butter and sprinkle two tablespoons grated cheese over; bake in a hot oven until brown. Meanwhile have half a six-ounce package of egg noodles cooked, drained and seasoned and half of a number 1 can of lima beans heated. Arrange these in a border around the salmon. This dish makes the whole meal part of the meal, supplying meat, starch, cereal and vegetable, and all its ingredients cost only 54 cents.

For the ice-cream, scald together contents of a six-ounce can of evaporated milk, one-third cup sugar and two tablespoons water, and add two tablespoons lemon juice and one eight-ounce can of blackberries mashed and pressed through a coarse sieve. Freeze as usual.
